Individual Accountability: Understanding Digestion

Demonstrate your new understanding of digestion by answering the following question: Lizards, like pythons, are ectotherms – organisms that regulate their body temperature by environment and behavior (mammals are endotherms – body temperature is regulated by metabolic processes). However, lizards do not fast like pythons do. Will the regulatory spans of lizards be more similar to pythons or to mammals? Defend your answer in four or five sentences.